H.B. Fuller receives safety award

Staff report

FRANKFORT — Labor Cabinet Deputy Secretary Mike Nemes visited H.B. Fuller Wednesday to present a Governor's Safety and Health Award for working 1,285,567 consecutive hours without a lost time injury or illness.

"Congratulations to H.B. Fuller in Paducah on earning your first Governor's Safety and Health Award," Labor Cabinet Secretary Derrick Ramsey stated. "I'm ecstatic that Kentucky just received its lowest Injury and Illness rate in the state's history, and the collective efforts of labor and management at businesses like H.B. Fuller is a big reason for this. On behalf of Gov. Bevin and all of us at the Labor Cabinet, thank you for all of your hard work and your dedication to workplace safety."

H.B. Fuller is a global adhesives provider that focuses on perfecting adhesives, sealants and other specialty chemical products. The Paducah facility, which opened in 1987 and has 95 employees, manufactures hot melt adhesives used in a wide range of consumer products. This includes disposable hygiene products, such as baby diapers, feminine care products and medical applications, as well as bottle labeling and bookbinding.

"We are honored to be acknowledged for our commitment to safety at our Paducah facility," said Mark Hodge, senior facility engineer and maintenance manager. "At H.B. Fuller, safety is our top priority, and we believe it requires buy-in at every level of our company. We consistently strive to find new and better ways to improve our processes to help ensure the safety of our most valuable assets — our employees."

"I would like to offer my congratulations to the hardworking men and women at H.B. Fuller in Paducah for their dedication to a safe and healthy workplace environment," state Sen. Danny Carroll (R- Paducah) said. "I applaud any company who goes above and beyond to ensure the wellbeing of its employees and H.B. Fuller has done an excellent job in setting and meeting such high expectations."

The Kentucky Labor Cabinet presents the Governor's Safety and Health Award to highlight outstanding safety and health performance in Kentucky's workplaces. A business may qualify for the award if its employees achieve a required number of hours worked without experiencing a lost time injury or illness. The required number of hours is dependent upon the number of employees.

According to a recent report from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), Kentucky employers reported the lowest incident rate for nonfatal occupational injuries and illnesses in the state's history.

Based on a mathematical calculation that describes the number of recordable incidents per 100 full-time employees, Kentucky's rate improved from 3.8 in 2014 to 3.7 in 2015 — reflecting the most recent data available. This rate has steadily declined since it was first calculated in 1996, when a rate of 8.4 was reported.

Barlow, 76, ex-member of House, dies

Staff report

Thomas Jefferson Barlow III of Paducah, a former U.S. representative in Kentucky's First District and director of River City Missions, died Wednesday at Baptist Health Paducah. He was 76.

Barlow, a Democrat, served one term in the 103rd Congress, from 1993 to 1995. He ran for re-election in 1994 but was defeated by Republican Ed Whitfield.

Whitfield's successor, Congressman James Comer, plans to pay tribute to Barlow today on the floor of the House of Representatives.

"I knew Congressman Barlow. He was a tremendous public servant and very successful western Kentucky businessman," Comer said. "I know many members of Congress who served with him, who are still there, would like to send their respects to the Barlow family."

Former Paducah City Commissioner Robert Coleman served with Barlow on the board of River City Missions, which provides services for the homeless.

Mother accused of endangering child

Staff report

After a months-long investigation with the Department of Community Based Services, deputies arrested a Paducah woman Sunday on drug and wanton endangerment charges.

According to the McCracken County Sheriff's Department, Jessica M. Hurst was charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, third-degree possession of a controlled substance, prescription controlled substance not in a proper container, first-degree possession of a controlled substance and first-degree wanton endangerment.

The charges came at the conclusion of an investigation questioning the welfare of Hurst's 8-year-old child.

Deputies said the child was initially removed from the home in September until Hurst could comply with criteria set to ensure the well being of the child.

Toward the end of December, deputies said, the child was allowed to return to Hurst, and the sheriff's department continued welfare checks.

On Dec. 29, deputies said they went to the residence to perform a welfare check, and while waiting for someone to answer the door, through a window they saw drug paraphernalia on the living room table. A small amount of drugs were also found in the house, deputies said.

Deputies said they spoke to Hurst's roommate, Matthew Robertson, 30, of Princeton, who claimed the drugs and drug paraphernalia were his.

Deputies said they questioned Hurst, who was also at the house, who said the child was with a baby sitter.

Deputies said the child was again taken into protective custody.

Due to discrepancies in Hurst's stories and information gleaned during their investigation, deputies said, Hurst was taken into custody Sunday and charged.
